Here, you can view your current program of study or use the “What If” function to “try on” different programs of study!

How to use the “What If” Function

You can use the “What If” function to see which courses will apply to another program or an embedded TCC

The screenshot shows a web interface with a top navigation bar containing 'Worksheets' and 'Notes' tabs. Below this is a 'Format:' section with a 'Student View' dropdown, 'Process What-If' and 'Save as PDF' buttons, and two checked checkboxes: 'Include in-progress classes' and 'Include preregistered classes'. The main content area is titled 'What-If' and features a 'What-If' sub-section with an 'Academic Year' dropdown menu set to 'Pick an Academic Year'. Below this is a 'Choose Your Different Areas of Study' section with a 'Major' dropdown menu set to 'Pick a Major'. To the right is a 'Chosen Areas of study' box, currently empty, with a 'Remove' button below it. Four yellow callout boxes with red arrows point to specific elements: '1. Select “What If”' points to the 'What-If' tab; '2. Select an Academic Year (i.e. Fall 2017)' points to the 'Academic Year' dropdown; '3. Select a Program' points to the 'Major' dropdown; and '4. Click PROCESS WHAT-IF' points to the 'Process What-If' button.

1. Click “What If” from the selections on the left
2. Select an Academic Year (i.e. Fall 2017)
3. Pick the program you want to “try on”
4. Click Process What If to view the new audit

*Using the steps above will create a new audit for the student based on the selected program, including learning support. This means, if you are currently in a diploma or certificate and do a “What If” for a degree program, you will see the learning support requirements for the degree. You may not need learning support in a diploma or certificate program, but see that you do need learning support for the higher-level degree coursework.
